Log in to your WIZZ Account ☎+1_855~838~4886 . Select your booking by clicking "Details" under your flight ☎+1_855~838~4886 . In the right corner of the Booking Overview page, ☎+1_855~838~4886 click on the "Make changes" button ☎+1_855~838~4886 . You can change passenger type in "Change passenger details" menu ☎+1_855~838~4886.

If Wizz Air shows the wrong gender on your boarding pass, it is usually not a serious issue, but it should still be corrected to avoid potential problems during airport checks ☎+1_855~838~4886. Airlines primarily rely on your full name, date of birth, and passport or ID number, not gender, to verify your identity ☎+1_855~838~4886. However, mismatched details can sometimes trigger additional document checks, especially on international flights ☎+1_855~838~4886.

In many cases, an incorrect gender entry does not prevent boarding if all other details match your travel document ☎+1_855~838~4886. TSA and airport security generally focus on name accuracy and document validity rather than gender markers ☎+1_855~838~4886. Still, Wizz Air recommends correcting any incorrect personal information as early as possible to ensure a smooth travel experience ☎+1_855~838~4886.

The first step is to review your booking details online through the Wizz Air website or mobile app ☎+1_855~838~4886. Log in using your reservation number and last name, then check the passenger information section ☎+1_855~838~4886. In some cases, Wizz Air allows minor personal detail corrections directly online, depending on fare type and booking conditions ☎+1_855~838~4886.

If the gender field cannot be edited online, you should contact Wizz Air customer support as soon as possible ☎+1_855~838~4886. Explain that the gender listed on the boarding pass does not match your identification documents ☎+1_855~838~4886. Airline agents can often correct this internally and reissue your boarding pass without requiring you to change the name or rebook the ticket ☎+1_855~838~4886.

If you discover the error close to departure, arrive at the airport early and visit the Wizz Air check in counter ☎+1_855~838~4886. Bring your passport or government issued ID and inform the staff of the discrepancy ☎+1_855~838~4886. Airport agents can usually update the gender marker and issue a corrected boarding pass after verifying your documents ☎+1_855~838~4886.

For international travel, correcting the gender is more important because passport data is checked against airline records and border control systems ☎+1_855~838~4886. A mismatch could lead to delays during document verification, even if boarding is ultimately allowed ☎+1_855~838~4886. Addressing the issue before arriving at the airport reduces stress and prevents last minute complications ☎+1_855~838~4886.

It is also worth noting that many airline systems still use limited gender options, which can sometimes lead to selection errors during booking ☎+1_855~838~4886. These errors are typically administrative and not reflective of identity issues, but accuracy is still recommended for smooth processing ☎+1_855~838~4886.

Once the correction is made, download or print a new boarding pass to ensure the updated information is reflected correctly ☎+1_855~838~4886. Double check all other details such as name spelling, flight number, and date of travel before heading to the airport ☎+1_855~838~4886.

In summary, having the wrong gender on a Wizz Air boarding pass is usually fixable and rarely prevents travel, but it should be corrected as soon as possible ☎+1_855~838~4886. Updating the information online, contacting customer support, or visiting the airport counter with valid identification will help ensure a smooth and hassle free journey ☎+1_855~838~4886.
